

Love and Guilt Spell

I cry and cry
And with every retching sob it feels as if my heart will die
May your heart grow heavy with guilt for all the pain and hurt I feel
For you hurt me by acting like a heel
I go out of my way for you
But your caring for me is never true

For each tear that I shed
You will open your eyes with dread
When you realize with big surprise
That the best thing to happen to you was staring you in the face

Now your inability to compromise
Has put you in a very bad place
Your only saving grace
Will be to voice your deepest love desire
And to turn my pain into passion's hottest fire

As I look into a flame of successful green
I wish that my hidden desire will be seen
As I look into a flame of pure white
I wish that you will finally do what is right
As I look into a flame of loving red
I wish that your eyes will no longer dread

The best thing to happen to you
For my caring is really true

Blessed be
